DAR Referral Awards

DAR Referral Awards

In appreciation of the DAR's support of the SAR in recruitment of new members, the Tennessee SAR has established recognition programs for both DAR Chapters and DAR members.

The following describes in some detail these programs. Please contact the State DAR Liaison Committee for additional information.

The Rachel Martin DAR Chapter Referral Award may be awarded to the DAR chapter that obtains the largest percentage of new SAR members in a single calendar year. Percentage is based on new SAR members in a single calendar year. Percentage is based on the new SAR members divided by the number of DAR members in the said chapter on January 1st of the award year. The DAR Liaison Committee is responsible for this award. They will obtain the membership count of each DAR chapter as of the beginning of each award year. The SAR State Registrar will maintain the DAR Finder Forms and the DAR Liaison Committee will request from the Registrar the number of DAR Finder Forms by DAR chapter for the award year. The DAR Liaison Committee will then determine the two award winners and inform the State President and the Awards Committee Chairman.

Ties will be broken in the following manner. If two or more chapters obtain the same number of referrals, the winner will be the chapter with the highest percentage. If two or more chapters obtain the same percentage, the winner will be the chapter with the highest number.

Grace and Rachel Martin

Disguised as men, Grace and Rachel Martin, whose husbands were off fighting tranny, ambushed British officers carrying important documents one night. Returning home, they found the officers enjoying a meal their mother-in-law had prepared.

The women's bravery began when they were tired of how the British treated women and children. They sought this opportunity to help out. Knowing that a courier was bringing British documents to South Carolina, they set out to stop the courier and get the documents for the Patriots. Borrowing their husband's clothes and pistols, they waited in the dark along the road the courier would be traveling. Upon hearing horses, they stopped the British officers, obtaining what they needed without firing a shot. They were in for a real surprise when they arrived home later that night. Luckily for them, men in the dark look different from women in the light.
